A collection of eight ghostly' short stories for young juniors, from Penelope Lovely's work over the past twelve years. A loose title, as the ghosts in question range from Martians to dragons, but nobody is quibbling, I'm sure, as the quality of the stories is so good. The title story is a gem of concise craftsmanship, all neatly tidied up, tongue firmly in cheek, at the conclusion. 'The ghosts kept the babies amused from morning to night. The babies thrived; the ghosts were happy; the ghost dog, who was actually a bitch, settled down so well that she had puppies, which is one of the most surprising aspects of the whole business.' Lovely touch!
